The screenshot shows a Zoom meeting window. The main content is a slide titled "Henry Ford" with a list of four points:

1. Worked as Chief Engineer in city of Detroit, for Thomas Edison the famous inventor
2. At night, Henry used to fiddle around with an idea for a combustion engine
3. Produced a first design for a motor vehicle
4. Wanted to make it into a success – adopted Frederick Winslow Taylor's Principles of Scientific Management

Next to the text is a portrait of Henry Ford. Below the text is a diagram with five orange boxes containing the following text:

- Science, not rules of thumb
- Scientifically train employees.
- Ensure most efficient ways of working are used.
- Divide work between managers and workers
- Pay based on results.
